

Consortium of Institutes for Decentralized Wastewater Treatment

presents

National Troubleshooting Wastewater Systems for High Strength and Hydraulic loading

Train-the-Trainer Academy

Crystal Lake, Illinois

JUNE 26-28, 2007

Delegates of member institutions of the Consortium of Institutes for Decentralized Wastewater Treatment (CIDWT) are invited to participate in the first Train the Trainer Academy for the National Troubleshooting Systems serving Residential, Commercial and Recreational Facilities for High Strength and Hydraulic Loading. This Academy is designed to present nationally reviewed, standardized training materials to instructors and assist them in sharpening their training skills. Participants will learn the most effective way to present the materials to wastewater practitioners in their respective areas. The program will include three days of classroom and field instruction by members of the project writing team.

As part of the registration package, participants will receive:

- A hard copy of the course manual that provides details on troubleshooting and evaluating sources connected to onsite wastewater treatment technologies and thorough instructions on the use of the source-based Evaluation Checklists that comprise the core of the Troubleshooting Program.
- An instructor's guide that includes valuable information on sample homework and exam questions.
- A CD ROM of educational materials that provides a complete set of PowerPoint® presentations as well as the entire set of Evaluation Checklists.

NOTE: Registration is limited to delegates of CIDWT member institutions. Attendance at a CIDWT Train the Trainer Academy is required before the National Troubleshooting Program materials can be used for training. Additionally, a trainer must participate in the O&M Service Provider Train-the-Trainer program before participating in this program.
